

DISCIPLINE

The primary purpose of discipline is educational in nature and is aimed at the development of responsible student conduct.

The University has the right and duty to protect its educational purpose through setting and maintaining standards and regulations considered essential to its purpose. The Student Handbook describes disciplinary procedures and penalties, which may include suspension or expulsion from the University. The Student Handbook is available online at studentlife.creighton.edu/community/student-handbook (<https://studentlife.creighton.edu/community/student-handbook/>).